

Communication with the Mission Partners

It is important to have only one or two points of contact with the mission partner. It becomes overwhelming to the partners if all of the different lay leaders reach out for information. Appoint one person as the “hub” to communicate GIC information to the partner. Connect with the GIC leader and the hospitality leader to best discern who will connect with the mission partners to keep them up to date on information about the GIC.